STATUS

Draft v1 — internal

Universal opening (use across all niches)

3-second hook (earn the right to keep talking):

"Hi, this is [SDR NAME] from r0cketship. We delivered 50 free [NICHE] leads to your account this morning — I'm calling to make sure they were the right fit and to see what kind of pipeline you're trying to fill. Got 30 seconds?"

If they say "yes" / "go ahead" → proceed to qualifying If they say "no" / "busy" → "Totally fair. When's better — later today or tomorrow morning?" (book a callback in the dialer) If they say "what's r0cketship?" → "It's the predictive lead platform you signed up for — you got 50 free leads to test. I'm just making sure they're the right quality before you decide whether to keep going."

Universal call structure (5–7 minutes target)

1. Opening hook (3 seconds)
2. Permission (30 seconds — buy time)
3. Qualifying (3 questions, ~90 seconds)
4. Pitch anchored on $4,500 (60 seconds)
5. Handle objections (variable)
6. Booking ask (30 seconds — every call ends with calendar attempt)

If they're not buyer-fit: book a 15-min meeting anyway with the closer for qualification, OR mark as dead in the dialer with a reason code.

Universal qualifying logic (adapt 3 questions per niche)

These three questions decide tier placement:

- Q1 — Volume/scale: Establishes their existing pipeline size and confirms they're a real buyer, not a tire-kicker
- Q2 — Outcome math: Calculates value-per-deal so you can show ROI on Tier 2
- Q3 — Capacity: Determines if they have closers (Tier 1 ok) or need closers (Tier 2/3)

The script per niche fills in Q1/Q2/Q3 with niche-relevant numbers.

1. SolarSignal — Solar/HVAC/Roofing SDR Script

Buyer: Owner-operator residential solar/HVAC/roofing companies, $500k–$5M revenue

Niche-specific qualifying

Q1 (volume): "How many installs are you doing per month right now? And what's your funnel — door-to-door, ads, referrals?"

Q2 (outcome math): "What's your average installed system price and your commission per close?" (typical: $25k–$45k system, $2k–$5k installer net)

Q3 (capacity): "Who's doing the dialing today? You, in-house reps, or are you outsourcing?"

Niche pitch (anchor on Tier 2)

"Here's how this works for installers like you. The $1,500 plan gives you the data — your ZIP exclusively, 50–200 fresh intent-scored homeowners a month, synced to GoHighLevel or HubSpot, DNC-clean. Most installers start here.

But the customers we work with who 5x their installs are on the $4,500 plan — we actually book the consultations on your calendar. You show up, they're warm, system info already in the notes, and you close. At your $3k avg commission, you need ONE extra install per month to make $4,500 back. Most of our solar customers book 6–12 extra consultations per month at our calendar.

Which sounds closer to where you are — running your own dial team, or wanting someone else to do it?"

Niche objection handlers

OBJECTION	RESPONSE
"I already use AngiList / Modernize / Sunrun leads"	"Those leads are sold 5–7 times. Ours are exclusive to your ZIP. Big difference — your competitor literally cannot have them."
"I have a guy who door-knocks"	"Perfect. Our leads are ZIP-targeted intent — give your knockers a list of addresses where the homeowner already searched for solar this week. Same crew, way better hit rate."
"How do I know the leads are real?"	"Easy. Your $50 signup credit is already loaded — pull 10 right now, dial them while we're on this call. If you don't get a live person in the first 5, we'll comp another 50."
"I can't afford $4,500"	"Then start at $1,500 and upgrade when you've closed your first deal from the leads. That's 2 weeks for most of our installers."
"Send me info first"	"Of course. I'll send the one-pager right after we book a 15-minute walkthrough with our closer — Tuesday at 2pm or Wednesday at 10am?"

Booking ask

"Let's get 15 minutes on your calendar to walk through your specific ZIP, your current install volume, and which plan makes sense. Tuesday 2pm or Wednesday 10am — which works?"

Disposition guide

- booked — calendar invite sent (target: 10–15% of connected calls)
- hot_transfer — they want to talk to closer NOW; transfer to hot_transfer_number
- callback — set callback time in dialer
- left_message — voicemail dropped, mark for retry tomorrow
- no_answer — retry pattern: 4 hours later, then 24 hours, then 48 hours, then dead
- dead — explicitly not a fit (wrong niche, too small, hostile)
- sold — they bought during the call (rare, but happens — close in dialer w/ sale value)

2. CommercialRoofing.Pro SDR Script

Buyer: Owner / VP business dev at commercial roofing companies, $2M–$50M revenue

Niche-specific qualifying

Q1 (volume): "How many commercial roof projects are you bidding on per month, and how many are you winning?"

Q2 (outcome math): "What's your average commercial roof project size and gross margin?" (typical: $250k–$5M project, 20–30% GM = $50k–$1.5M GP per won deal)

Q3 (capacity): "Who owns the BD function today — you, an in-house BD rep, or an outside firm?"

Niche pitch

"Commercial roofing has long sales cycles and big tickets — one deal is worth months of work. Our $1,500 plan gives you a weekly list of commercial properties in your territory that have imminent roof needs — weather events, lease turnover, age triggers — with the right contact (property manager, owner, REIT asset manager). Most commercial roofers start here.

But the ones doing $20M+/year are on our $4,500 plan — we identify the buildings AND book the site walks on your estimator's calendar. At a 20% close rate and $1M average project, ONE closed deal per quarter from us pays for the entire year of service ten times over.

What's your current process for filling the bid pipeline?"

Niche objection handlers

OBJECTION	RESPONSE
"I get my work from referrals"	"Smart. The $4,500 isn't a replacement for referrals — it's how you double your pipeline without diluting your reputation. Referrals are great when they happen. We make sure something happens every week."
"My BD rep already does prospecting"	"Then arm them better. Right now they're cold-calling lists. We give them buildings that already have a roof event — their connect rate doubles, their close rate triples. Their job gets easier and their commission gets bigger."
"We do residential, not just commercial"	"We have a residential brand too (SolarSignal/ContractorLeads.Live). Want me to bundle?"
"Show me a case study"	"Sure. [Use real case study if you have one] — closed $4.2M in commercial work last quarter from 47 buildings we flagged. ROI ~120x on the data spend. Want to walk through it in 15 minutes?"
"I need to talk to my partner"	"Of course. Let's do a 15-minute call with both of you — Tuesday or Wednesday?"

Booking ask

"Let me get you on a 15-minute call with our commercial roofing specialist — they'll walk through your territory, show you 10 actual flagged buildings, and you decide. Tuesday at 2pm or Wednesday at 10am?"

3. MortgageHeat SDR Script

Buyer: Independent mortgage brokers, branch managers, loan officers, $1–10M/yr origination volume

Niche-specific qualifying

Q1 (volume): "How many funded loans are you doing per month right now, and what's your origination volume YTD?"

Q2 (outcome math): "What's your average funded loan amount, and your commission split per loan?"
(typical: $300k–$500k loan, 1–1.5% commission = $3k–$7.5k per close)

Q3 (capacity): "Are you running your own dialer, do you have a team of LOAs/MLOs, or are you the closer too?"

Niche pitch

"Mortgage is brutal right now — Optimal Blue triggers are $200 each, sold 5 times, and you're competing with 4 other brokers on every lead. Our $1,500 plan gives you ZIP-exclusive triggers — refi intent, equity triggers, life events, purchase intent — fresh, scored, only you get them in your ZIP.

The brokers doing 10+ funded loans per month from us are on the $4,500 plan — we call the triggers, qualify them, and book pre-approval calls on your calendar. At your $4,800 average commission, ONE extra funded loan per month pays for the entire year. Most of our brokers book 6–12 pre-approvals per month from us.

What's your current cost per funded loan all-in?"

Niche objection handlers

OBJECTION	RESPONSE
"I use Optimal Blue / LendingTree triggers"	"Then you know the pain — sold 5 times, $200 each, ghosted. Ours are ZIP-exclusive. Same trigger types, but only YOU get them. Try 50 free."
"Rates are too high right now, no one's refi-ing"	"Refis are down, sure. But purchase intent is up, life event triggers are up, and equity-takeout triggers are at record highs. Our scoring catches all three. Want me to show you?"
"TCPA compliance scares me"	"Every lead is DNC-scrubbed before it hits your CRM. Our compliance footer is in the platform — we keep audit trails for TCPA defense. We're more cautious than most. Want to talk to our compliance team?"
"I'd rather call my past clients"	"Do both. We sync with your CRM — your past clients get tagged when they hit a trigger event (rate drop, equity change). Past-client outreach + new triggers in your ZIP = best of both."
"I want to see the actual leads first"	"Your $50 signup is already loaded — pull 10 right now. If you get a live person in the first 5 dials, we book the call to upgrade. Deal?"

Booking ask

"15 minutes with our mortgage specialist — they'll show you your ZIP, the trigger types, your competitive landscape (we tell you which brokers in your ZIP we've already shown this to), and you decide. Tuesday at 2pm or Wednesday at 10am?"

4. AgencyVault SDR Script

Buyer: Agency owners, lead-gen agency principals, growth marketers serving 5+ clients

Niche-specific qualifying

Q1 (volume): "How many clients are you running lead gen for today, and what's your average client retainer?"

Q2 (outcome math): "How are you sourcing data for them today — ZoomInfo seats, Apollo, scraping, in-house? And what does that cost you per client?"

Q3 (capacity): "Are you looking to keep this in-house, or are you open to a partner that lets you white-label and resell with margin?"

Niche pitch

"Agencies have a classic problem — every new client means a new data tool to buy or another ZoomInfo seat. Our $1,500 plan gives you the data feed for ONE client. But the agencies that scale are on our $4,500 plan — unlimited clients, all white-labeled to YOUR brand, your dashboard, your account managers running it.

12 of our agency partners closed $1.8M in net-new retainers last quarter pitching r0cketship as their proprietary lead engine. The ones doing it best are on the JV tier — we co-sell with them and share revenue.

Where do most of your clients sit by vertical? And how many would you want to onboard in 30 days?"

Niche objection handlers

OBJECTION	RESPONSE
"I already have a data stack"	"Great. We don't replace your stack — we replace the per-seat fees. One subscription, all your clients, white-labeled. Show me your stack cost per client and I'll show you our break-even."
"My clients don't pay for data, I do"	"Right — we let you charge them. Bundle the lead feed into your retainer at $2k/mo markup. We're $4,500 unlimited, so client 3 onward is pure profit."
"I'm worried about the white-label being obvious"	"Custom domain, your branding, your dashboard, your support emails. The customer literally never sees r0cketship unless they go look at the contract footer."
"How do I sell this to my clients?"	"We give you a sales kit: branded one-pager, demo deck, case studies. We'll even co-pitch your top 3 prospects on a JV deal."
"What happens if I lose a client?"	"We charge by your account, not by your clients. Unlimited clients on $4,500 — gain or lose them, your spend doesn't change. That's why agencies love this — variable revenue, fixed cost."

Booking ask

"15 minutes with our agency partner manager — they'll walk through how 3–4 of our top agency partners structured their pricing, and you decide if it works for your shop. Tuesday at 2pm or Wednesday at 10am?"

Universal closing rules (across all niches)

Every call ends with one of three states

1. Booked (best) — calendar invite in their email before you hang up
2. Callback set — specific time, in the dialer, follow-up email auto-sends
3. Dead — explicit reason code (wrong niche / hostile / not decision-maker / etc.)

Never:

- End a call with "I'll send you info" without a booked follow-up
- Promise pricing or features outside the published tiers
- Discount or negotiate — that's the closer's job
- Argue with prospects — book the meeting and let the closer handle it

Always:

- Use the prospect's name twice (start and during booking ask)
- Confirm the calendar invite landed before hanging up
- Note 1–2 personal/business details in the dialer for the closer
- Mark disposition in the dialer within 60 seconds of hang-up

SDR daily targets (Week 1–4 per niche)

METRIC	TARGET	NOTE
Dials/day	50–80	Twilio click-to-call from agent dashboard
Connect rate	15%+	Below 10% = data quality issue, escalate
Booking rate (from connected calls)	8–15%	Below 5% = script issue, retrain
Show rate (booked → attended)	50%+	Below 40% = booking quality, add reminder cadence
Daily hot transfers	1–3	Direct lift on closer pipeline

Coaching loop

- Daily: SDR reviews disposition tape with manager (5 min/day)
- Weekly: Top 3 calls and bottom 3 calls reviewed in team meeting; script tweaks based on common objections
- Monthly: Refresh objection handlers based on what's actually killing deals; update qualifying questions based on what predicts closed business

When to escalate to the closer

- Prospect explicitly asks pricing detail beyond what's published
- Prospect mentions a competitor by name and wants direct comparison
- Prospect asks about JV / revenue share — always escalate immediately
- Prospect is C-level at a 50+ person company — hot transfer or executive briefing
- Prospect mentions a specific dollar threshold ("if you can do $1M for me, I'll sign today")
